General Terms and Conditions

The following general terms and conditions shall apply for the contractual relationship between and of the Talks Hub Group agencies, including Talks Hub Translations and its customers requesting specific services provided and advertised on the current website: Talks Hub Translations operates a translation service that is available to customers, world-wide, via the Internet/World Wide Web. The translations are done by qualified freelance translators that gain access to customer texts if they match with the client requirements.

Data Protection

All translation assignments will be treated strictly confidential. Upon request, special non-disclosure agreements can be concluded. 100% confidentiality cannot be guaranteed during communication in electronic form between the customer, website and the qualified translators.

Offers

We maintain high standards in sending the client our best offer for each order, in terms of price, quality and delivery time. A contract with Talks Hub Translations is formed directly by the transfer of the customer's order via electronic mail or by paying the requested amount of money displayed on the website. Our offer comprises a various range of services, to include translation, transcription, voiceover, interpreting, and other type of linguistic support.

Data

Generally, the customer submits text in electronic form. Generally, the customer receives the translation in electronic form, as well. If needed the customer has to inform Talks Hub Translations of any other desired file format at the time the order is placed. The source material must be legible, and be transmitted at the time, and in the format, given by Talks Hub Translations. Talks Hub Translations is not responsible for delays in delivery resulting from the late delivery of source material, or delivery in a differing format. All changes and additions to the source material must be transmitted to Talks Hub Translations, after clear indication of the changes compared to the original version.

Prices and Deliveries

Prices and delivery dates for the implementation of changes and additions to the source materials in translations, whose conveyance has already begun into the target language (author's corrections), will be determined according to the scope of the changes, and the scope of the percentage of the translation already made. Talks Hub Translations shall notify the customer with an estimate of the additional costs, before the changes and additions are implemented. Proofreading, subsequent text creation, acceptance of graphics and pictures as well as text assembly, production of printer's copies or Html documents, and the like, will be calculated according to the time expense, provided no firm price was agreed upon in advance. Generally, the source text calculations will be made the basis of word calculations.

Payments

Each customer, if interested in the submitting translation projects to Talks Hub Translations, will send to us his source text and other relevant information to allow the requested translation. Talks Hub Translations will add the customer in the database and start translating procedures within the next maximum 48 hours of receiving an order, depending on the availability of translators and language pair frequency. In case of an order, the customer has to pay the requested amount in advance, unless otherwise agreed. The customer's payment shall be done by transfer to Ratiu, Bodea GbR bank account, by credit card or by means of bank draw by direct debit. The customer shall receive the invoice through the electronic mail.

Terminology

Translations will be carried out with regard to spelling, grammar and linguistic usage according to the generally recognized rules of the target language. Talks Hub Translations translates technical terms and special vocabulary with the conventional and customary meaning. If the customer has a certain terminology or form request for the translation, deviating from the generally recognized rules, then he shall communicate this, and provide the corresponding instructions (sample texts, parallel texts, glossaries and such). The usage of the customer's specific terminology must be expressly agreed upon at the time the order is placed. Upon the translator's request, the customer shall grant technical consultation.

Copyright

Talks Hub Translations shall guarantee that the customer can use the translation without temporal and spatial restrictions, and without quantitative restrictions corresponding to the purpose communicated. The customer is also entitled to the processing of the translation, as well as to the transfer of rights to the translation to a third party by means of a license, or by some other means. Talks Hub Translations releases the customer from all claims of the translator. However, copyrighted rights of use for the translation shall not pass to the customer until after the complete payment is paid. The customer guarantees and confirms that the translation of the source material as well as the publication, the marketing and distribution, the sale and every other use for the translation being delivered, shall not represent a violation of patent rights, copyrights, trade mark rights, patent rights, or any other rights of a third-party, and that he is totally authorized to have the text translated. The customer shall release Talks Hub Translations from all claims concerning this matter.

Services

Talks Hub Translations shall be obligated to carry out the translation in such a way that it contains no deficiencies. Insignificant deficiencies shall remain unconsidered. Further, Talks Hub Translations shall be obligated to ensure that the translation will be done without abridgements or additions, except the one required by considering the normal use of the language in the target language. Talks Hub Translations shall reserve the right to add comments, footnotes, etc., for the understanding of the text in the target language. The finished translation will be reviewed for completeness and data format, as well as other recognizable deficiencies at first glance, and sent to the customer. The date sent from Talks Hub Translations, and/or the time stamp of the e-mail, or of the FTP-server, shall be considered as the time of receipt of the translation. If the customer raises no objection within 14 days -- the deadline shall begin with the passing of the day on which the translation was verifiably sent to the customer (e.g., mail log) -- then, the translation shall be considered approved. In this case, the customer shall abjure from all claims that he could be entitled to due to possible deficiencies of the translation. If the customer criticizes a deficiency existing objectively, not just an inconsiderable deficiency, within the 14 day deadline, then this deficiency must be described as precisely as possible in writing. The customer has to communicate simultaneously within which time period the deficiency should be eliminated. Talks Hub Translations will thereupon initiate the removal of the deficiencies within the time period mentioned, provided this time period is reasonable, in all other respects, within a reasonable time period. If the first removal of the deficiencies fails, Talks Hub Translations is entitled to touch up the translation, in turn, on the basis of the deficiencies described in writing as precisely as possible by the customer, again. If the second removal of the deficiencies fails, the customer is entitled to a reduction of the fee agreed upon of his own choice, or to a cancellation of the contract. Upon the alternative last-mentioned, all rights to the translation shall revert back to Talks Hub Translations. The customer is only entitled to rights above and beyond due to translation deficiencies, if Talks Hub Translations, one of its legal representatives, or one of its agents has acted intentionally or with gross negligence.

Liability

All liability claims, warranty claims and claims for damages shall be limited to the value of the order. If it turns out after the acceptance of the order by Talks Hub Translations, that the order cannot be carried out within the time period agreed upon, due to good reason (e.g., sickness of the translator, or technical defects in the network), Talks Hub Translations shall notify the customer immediately. If the supply of the translation service is not possible due to a higher power, or other unforeseeable events (e.g., traffic hold-up, strike, blackout of the power supply, or the like), then the expiration of any deadline shall be suspended during this time. The deadline shall not begin to run until the corresponding disruption is removed. Talks Hub Translations shall not be liable, if it was pointed out to the ordering customer, at the time the order is placed, that the deadline desired by the customer does not allow processing to live up to the usual requirements of quality. Legal rights exist exclusively to Talks Hub Translations for the customer, not to the respective translator or interpreter. Direct customer-translator contact is only possible with the consent of Ratiu, Bodea GbR company.

Final Provisions

If any of the provisions be, or become, ineffectual, fully or in part, the remaining provisions shall remain in effect.
